*The so-called equalized valuation upon which the cost of elementary education is raised for the past two years has been $2,310,958.00. This year it has been reduced to $2,230,587.00. This figure will remain unchanged for two years.

TO THE SCHOOL BOARD OF ASHLAND

This report covers a period of time extending from the spring term of 1930 to January 1, 1931.

School Plant

With the exception of the Calley School which this year is taking care of fourteen pupils, nine from Ashland and five from Holderness, Ashland is conducting a centralized school system. The two buildings which we have are adequate at the present time for the service required of them.

I recommend that the school board seriously consider a more modern system of toilets in the elementary school building, both for boys and girls. The fixtures, the flushing system, the lighting, both natural and artificial, need overhauling. The toilets in the high school are in need of a few minor repairs.

The need of chairs for the high school auditorium, the repair of desks, the condition of the fence around the school yard, and a few other odd jobs in the way of painting have previously been called to your attention.

Use of Leisure Time

Ashland is in need of facilities to teach its young people the proper use of leisure time. Provision should be made for organizations which will furnish proper guidance and interests for young people. An improved public library with additional reading material, and reading rooms for children and adults are a great necessity. The school district, the town, or some public spirited person with means should provide for a gradual playground system open to the young people of the community the year round. The high-ways and by-ways alone have never developed a high type of boyhood or girlhood. The returns in the way of healthy minds and bodies will overbalance the cost for which the advantages advocated may be secured.

The Six-Six Plan

This year the high school has been organized as a six-year high school beginning with the seventh grade I still believe that this type of organization best serves the interests and needs of our boys and girls. The fact still remains however, that the personality, interest, enthusiasm, and good will of men and women who are retained to train boys and girls, count more than mere organization. Hence follows the importance of engaging none but the most desirable teachers within the means of the community for such an important task.

Employment of Teachers

Last spring, only one vacancy occurred in the elementary schools, caused by the resignation of Miss Celia Barrett. This fact speaks well both for the teachers and the school. The resignations of Miss Gertrude McNally and Miss Mildred Peters made it necessary to secure two new teachers for the high school during the summer vacation. Miss Mildred Pelkey, teacher of Home Economics, resigned at the end of the fall term. Her place was taken by Miss Margaret Cahill.

There is a rumor abroad that there is an oversupply of teachers. We know that this year all the young ladies who were graduated from the Plymouth and Keene Normal Schools last spring are employed. In order to fill certain positions, some New Hampshire superintendents have been obliged to secure teachers from out of the state. We should establish a policy to make it worthwhile for teachers who come to us and make good to stay for a perid of several years. If we do not do this, the small towns of New Hampshire will be just so many training schools for the larger towns of the state, for Massachusetts, and other states.

Enrollment in the High School

This year we have had a registration of 87 in the senior high school. This is the largest registration in the history of the high school. It has been rumored that this is only a temporary growth owing to the business depression of the past year. During a period of five years previous to the existing unemployment situation, when plenty of work existed, the superintendent of schools in Ashland has only been called upon to issue eleven employment certificates. This does not indicate any tendency on the part of Ashland boys and girls to leave school just for the purpose of securing employment. Neither does it show any attempt on the part of local manufacturers and other employers to compete with the Ashland High School for the services of boys and girls. I am of the opinion that this growth is permanent and will remain so, if the Ashland high school makes intelligent provision for the individual needs of boys and girls, and every individual connected with the institution tries hard to create and encourage the natural desire on the part of boys and girls for the better things in life.

Graduation at the End of the Eighth Grade

For a number of years the old custom of graduating pupils from the elementary school has been discontinued in Ashland. Boys and girls have received no recognition of school achievement until graduation from high school. This is too long a period. This matter was presented before the school board. After some discussion it was decided to award promotion certificates at the end of the sixth grade, where the first break between elementary and secondary education occurs in our program of studies. This occasion will be observed by suitable exercises. At the end of the eighth grade pupils will be awarded diplomas to show full completion of the elementary school course. We believe that this procedure will make the children feel that they are getting somewhere, and make school more real to them. Children will be just as proud to attend elementary school as the older children are to attend high school.

In order to promote this idea still further, I have called several teachers' meetings for the elementary school in order to discuss ways and means of developing a school morale by organizing the six grades in the elementary building as one unit, and giving teachers an opportunity to develop social, literary, and athletic activities. If we can get teachers and pupils to promote such activities in the elementary school as we do in the high school, we will succeed in better socializing boys and girls, in making school life more like real life situations, and finally to so arouse their interest that they will attend school cheerfully, and until the point of graduation from high school.

Standardized Tests

Last year we administered standardized tests to measure both intelligence and school achievement from the first grade up through high school. A discussion of those results is found in my last year's report to the school board. The testing program has been continued this year with this difference. So far we have tested the first six grades of the school system. The tests have been in specific subjects. The New Stanford tests in Reading and Arithmetic have been given. A technical discussion of standardized tests would be out of place here. Be it sufficient to say that the medians for Ashland in Arithmetic and Reading, two very important subjects, are decidedly above the medians for the country both as regards age and grade. The results have been tabulated and are kept in the superintendent's office. This testing program will be continued with other school subjects. It will be interesting to note if we can teach other subjects as well as we have apparently taught Arithmetic and Reading.

Before the end of the year we will administer standardized tests in specific subjects in the high school, too. I shall report the results to the school board at the proper time.

Conclusion

The items which I have touched upon in the course of this account have seemed to me to be important enough to inform the general public regarding them, through the courtesy usually extended by the school board to the superintendent of schools by publishing his report in the annual report of the town.

I wish to express my appreciation for the personal interest of the school board, and for the generous amount of time which, notwithstanding their busy lives, they devote for the welfare of the public schools, without remuneration of any kind.

May everyone connected with the public schools of Ashland be inspired with the determination to leave the school system every year a little more advanced than the year before.

Respectfully submitted,

VINCENT GATTO,

Superintendent of Schools.
